

Self-Employment Leads to Freedom (SELF)

Home Baked & Confectionary Goods Program from SARRC

who has been awarded a grant to provide training and support to individuals with autism spectrum disorders (ASDs) to assist them in increasing their earning potential and eventually becoming self-supporting members of the community.

SARRC

Southwest
Autism
Research & Resource Center

The Southwest Autism Research & Resource Center (SARRC) has been awarded $91,568 for one year to provide training and support to individuals with autism spectrum disorders (ASDs) to assist them in increasing their earning potential and eventually becoming self-supporting members of the community. SARRC will assist program participants in establishing a home baked goods business that may expand into a profitable self-employment enterprise. The Self-Employment Leads to Freedom (SELF) Project is an initiative led by the ADDPC to increase employment outcomes by partnering with SAARC to offer education and training to help potential business owners in taking the steps needed to start a business to become self-employed. SARRC's mission is to advance research and provide a lifetime of support for individuals with autism and their families. SARRC provides programs that address the needs of individuals with autism spectrum disorders of all ages.

For more information on SARRC please visit their website at www.autismcenter.org

