18	I am a support coordinator with DDD-I asked several of my members these questions and gave the answers that most gave me.	8/7/2020 2:22 PM
19	Parents are stressed, emotionally and physically drained due to the requirement to become experts on systems navigation for health care, education, transition, rights - money and ssi. Then work for social opportunities and inclusion in community to get through the public school system to then look at what is available for adult life and realize the fight will never end. Support Coordinators should be this person and they are not. Duplication of efforts and duplication of funds happen because there is not an expert in all of these fields managing a families case. The support coordinator role needs to be evaluated and reshaped with much higher expectations and standard of what they provide.	8/7/2020 2:19 PM
